

Turn Massage into Medicine.

Reclaim your purpose,
and control of your career.

Your body shouldn't be the cost of doing business.

Why Most Therapists Feel Stuck

You were trained to relax clients.
But your clients are in pain.
You're routines don't really help.

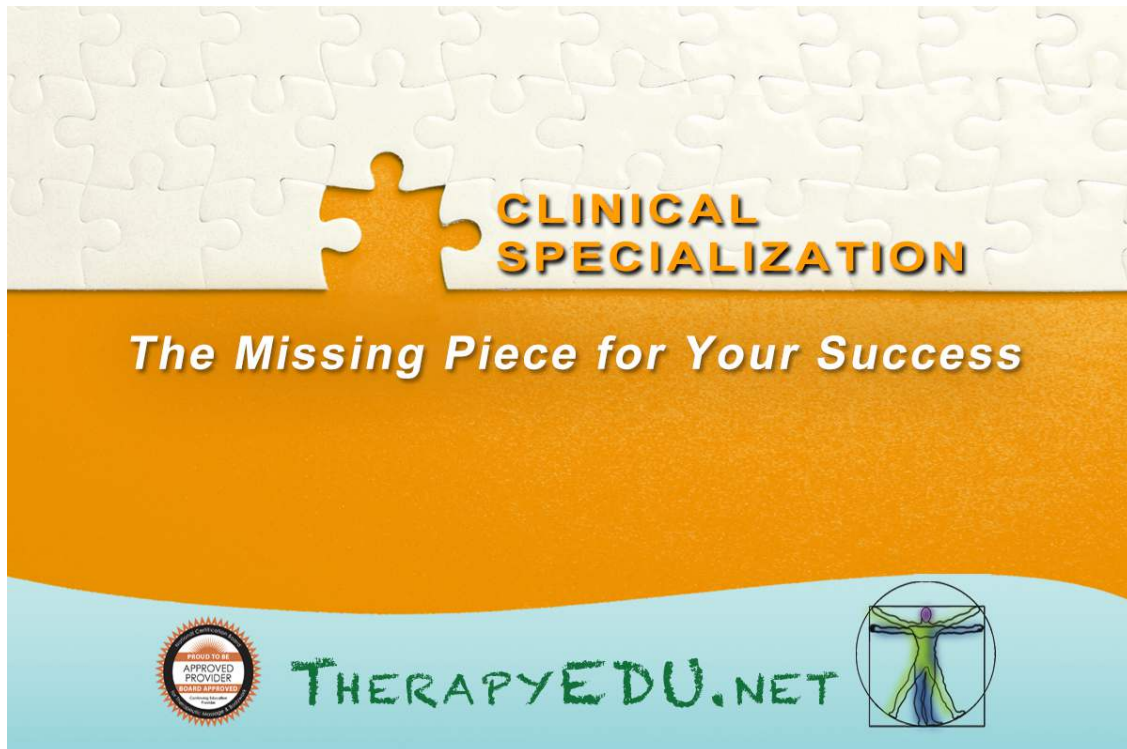

They didn't teach you to handle chronic pain,
postural dysfunction, or injuries.

So you're guessing,
and your confidence shows it.

Worse, you're burning out.

Too many sessions.
Too little respect.
Too few referrals.

What Got You Here... Won't Get You There

You've probably tried piecing things together:
A weekend CE here, a short technique class there.
Maybe you followed a guru promising a shortcut?

But it didn't stick. Nothing changed.

You're still tired. Still underpaid.

Still unsure if this is sustainable.

Turn the Table on Your Massage

Learn to assess. So you stop guessing.

Build treatment plans that get measurable results.

Speak the language of healthcare and earn clinical referrals.

Work clothes-on, no oil, no drape, side-lying, seated, using tools that protect your hands.

End the cycle of injury, insecurity, and isolation.

Who Is This For?

Therapists tired of the spa/chain grind

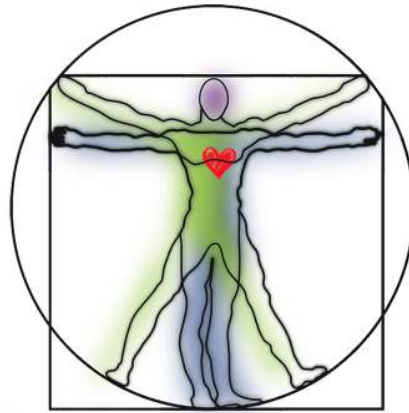

Mid-career therapists who feel stuck

Experienced LMTs ready to level up

Therapists who feel their body breaking down

Anyone ready to deliver more than “relaxation”

Unlock Clinical Results with Medical Massage Therapy

Advanced Training in Medical Massage
THERAPYEDU.NET

Move beyond ordinary spa massage.

Become a recognized specialist,
equipped to deliver effective, drug-free
pain relief and genuine healing.

Transform your massage practice
into an essential healthcare service.

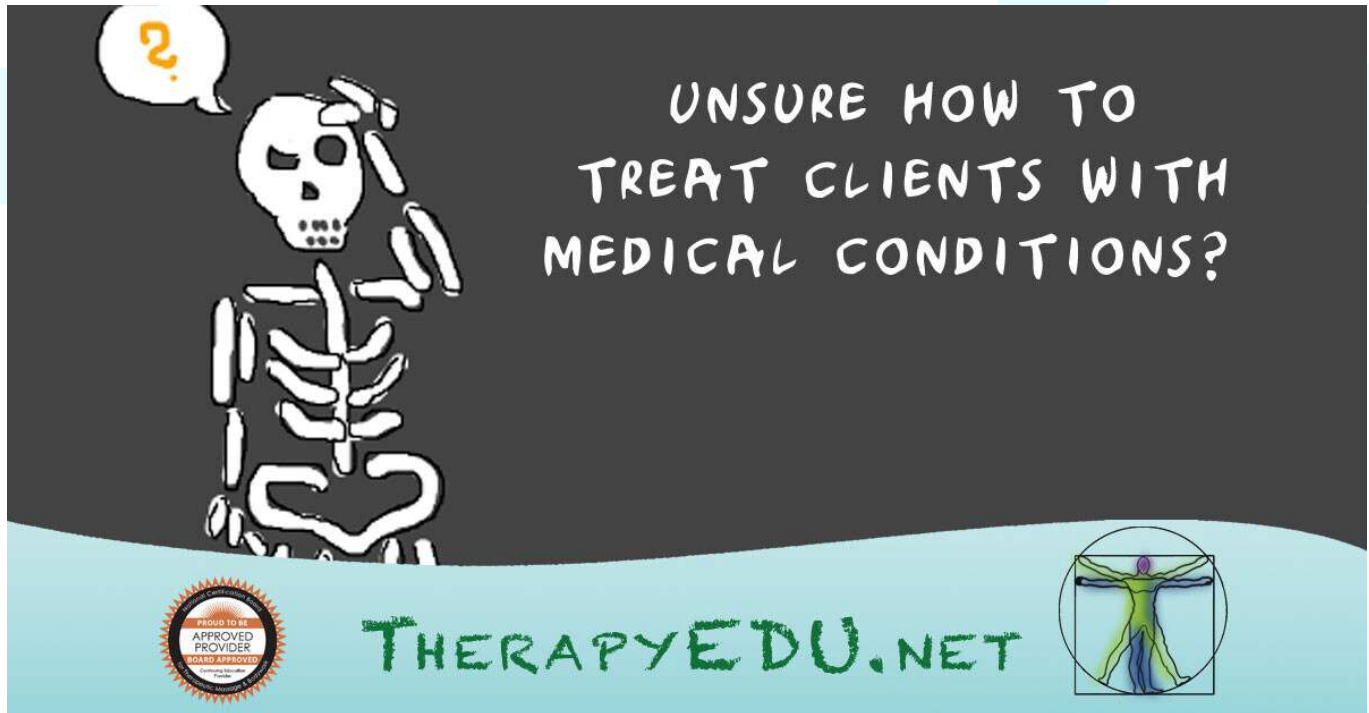

Why Choose Medical Massage?

While spa massage promotes relaxation, Medical Massage directly targets specific medical conditions, pain, and injuries, delivering predicable clinical outcomes.

Relaxation is a luxury. Pain remediation and movement restoration are vital.

5 Powerful Reasons to Become a Medical Massage Specialist

1. Targeted Clinical Treatments

We use a systematic clinical approach to precisely address chronic pain, injury rehabilitation, and muscular dysfunction using evidence-based techniques designed for measurable, reliable results.

with Medical Massage!

2. Confidence & Credibility

Expertise in clinical protocols, medical terminology, physiology, pathology, orthopedic assessment, and treatment planning takes you well beyond relaxation massage.

As your skills grow, so does your confidence to take on complex cases, advocate for clients, and communicate with other professional healthcare providers.

Your enhanced credibility will elevate your practice as a trusted provider in both wellness and medical settings.

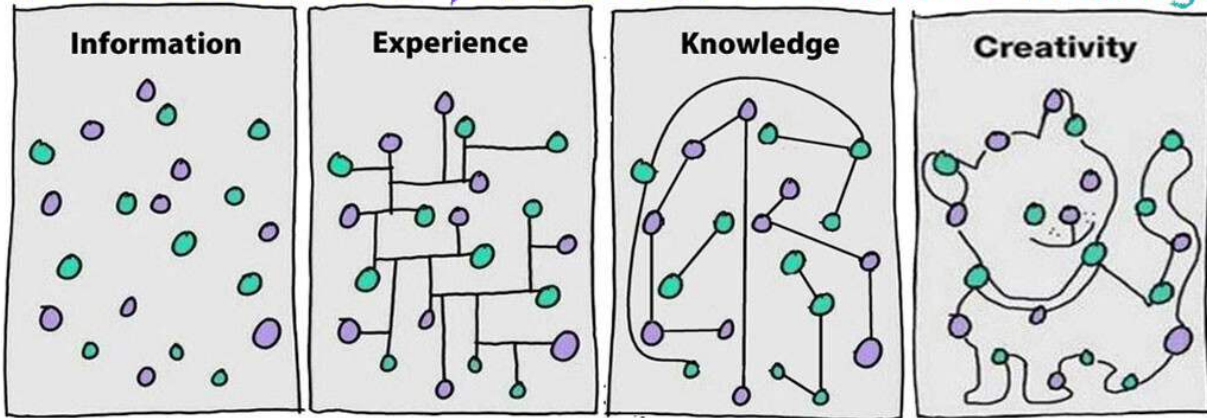

3. Integrated Healthcare Team

Be part of a patient-centered care approach that values your contributions.

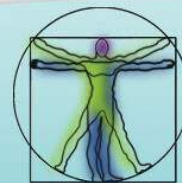

Collaborate with MDs, Chiropractors, Physical Therapists, and Dentists.

As you become known for getting real results, referrals follow and you'll be seen as the go-to therapist in your community, someone clients and providers alike trust for clinical massage care.

4. Root Cause Resolution

While diagnosing conditions may lie outside the legal scope of massage therapy, Medical Massage assessment skills will empower you to construct individualized treatment plans tailored to each client's needs.

Your ability to think clinically and adapt techniques enhances the likelihood of truly resolving underlying issues, not just managing symptoms temporarily, building trust in your professional judgment.

5. Need for Drug-Free Pain Relief

In the wake of the opioid epidemic, the healthcare system is urgently seeking non-pharmacological pain management.

Medical massage therapists are uniquely positioned to meet this growing demand.

With specialized skills and clinical credibility, you can fill critical healthcare gaps and offer patients safe, effective alternatives to prescription medication and costly Physical Therapy.

Six Game-Changing Benefits of Clothed-Client Massage

1. Interactive Client Engagement

Full-body massage on a well-oiled client is physically demanding and can be, frankly, boring. Clinical massage adds substance and builds lasting relationships.

Clothes-on improves outcomes and lasting value through client engagement.

Performing assessments, posture and movement coaching, and teaching remedial exercises and self care you'll deliver tangible and respected healthcare solutions.

2. Career Longevity & Injury Prevention

Clothes-on allows for effective use of Thumbsavers to save your hands.

Clothes-on encourages the liberal use of the Side-lying Position so you can get off your feet and work effectively while seated.

Using forearms and Pull-not-Push techniques protects your legs, back, and shoulders—giving you a more sustainable and injury-resistant career.

*As a mature therapist,
my joints are starting to hurt.*

*By adding these techniques,
I'm excited to do massage
for years to come.*

NO MORE NAKED PEOPLE!

This program has earned me more respect.

Worth every penny.

3. Clothes-on uses little or no oil.

Eliminate the cost, cleanup, and inconvenience of oils and lotions.
Enjoy cleaner, simpler sessions.

4. Draping & Disrobing Wastes Time

Maintaining drapes on a nearly-naked client is a socially awkward and time-consuming distraction.

Fewer sheets reduces laundry burdens.
Not disrobing saves time and resolves modesty and sexuality issues.

5. Professional Standing

Our clinical clothed-client approach transforms your client's experience. Clients and your community will see you as a professional health care provider.

6. Client Comfort

Clothes-on resolves gender issues.

Not disrobing welcomes new clients and spouses concerned about body image or sexuality.

Meet Our Expert Instructors

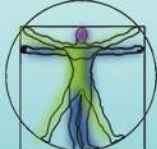

Barbara Ollis:

A clinical researcher and seasoned massage instructor, Barbara brings decades of expertise to elevate your practice.

I started working for Chiropractors at age 16. Teaching medical massage and corrective techniques has been a great joy in my life. I am humbled by the participation of other therapists who take our classes and am motivated by them to learn new ideas and techniques.

Julie Brown:

With 27 years as an LMT and now pursuing medical school, Julie integrates extensive clinical knowledge and hands-on experience into transformative training.

I've been an LMT and business owner since 1996. Through this program you will feel better armed in your business of doing massage, having confidence and credibility to bring in clients who are tailored to what you do best, rather than whoever walks in the door.

I'm really impressed how understandable this course was.

This class means a lot to me because I don't want to do massages anymore, I want to do treatments.

That is my passion. Thank you!

My own repetitive-use injuries make it easy for me to relate to clients and don't allow me the luxury of doing full-body massage.

I'm not interested in doing "pampering massage".

Your program is exactly what I needed.
